

Going green ... won't put your company in the red

Developing Successful Businesses

What is ISO 14001?

ISO 14001 is the internationally recognised standard for environmental management.

An Environmental Management System (EMS) ensures that organisations understand how their operations impact on the environment.

This assures customers that environmental considerations are addressed in the planning, production, and delivery of your products or services.

What can ISO 14001 do for YOUR business?

An EMS will increase your efficiency and produce real and measurable savings.

An EMS will help your company:

- Improve energy efficiency
- Minimise waste disposal costs
- Improve materials handling and stock control
- Open doors to new and bigger business opportunities
- Improve your profitability
